Benjamin, Eleanor and Joseph Badger (6-2-9)
Benjamin was born in Sheffield, England around 1825, the son of Joseph Badger and his wife Eliza (née Windale). He died on 18 November 1874 at Lonsdale House, Spring Hill aged 49. Three weeks later, his widow Eleanor (née Pass) died at the same place aged 50. On Christmas Day 1874, their only surviving child Joseph died aged 22, outliving his mother by only three weeks. The family's remains were transferred here from the Baptist burial ground on 19 May 1913.

Richard Jones (MLC) and family (6-3-8/9)
After returning from Sydney where he was fulfilling his duties as a member of the Legislative Council, Richard Jones was "seized by a paralytic fit" and died at his home at New Farm on 6 November 1852. He was born at Chirbury, Shropshire, in 1786 the eldest son of Thomas Jones, small landowner and brewer, and his wife Elizabeth (née Philips). He was educated in London and early chose a mercantile career, starting as a clerk. He first arrived in New South Wales in 1809. By May 1815 he was importing spirits from Bombay and established himself in Sydney as a general merchant. He returned to England where in 1823 he married Mary Louisa Peterson. In April 1825 he arrived back in Sydney with his wife, his infant son Richard, his sister Elizabeth, his brother Edward and the first shipment of sheep he intended to use to establish a pastoral empire. By the late 1820s he had become a magistrate and a leading public figure in Sydney. There was scarcely a committee or society of which he was not a member. He was a director of the Bank of Australia, president of the Gaslight Co., chairman of the Australian Auction Co., a director of the Marine Assurance Co. and on the committees of steamship companies. He was an original subscriber to the Bank of New South Wales of which he became president in 1828. In the Legislative Council from 1829 to 1843 he was a particularly active member, sitting on almost every select committee. He was severely hit by the depression of 1842-44 and declared insolvent in November 1843. All his ships and estates were sold but he again became a landowner, with large properties in southern Queensland, towards the end of the 1840s. He was re-elected to the Legislative Council as member for Stanley in 1850. Of his eight children, Mary Australia in 1844 married William Bligh O'Connell, son of Sir Maurice O'Connell and the maternal grandson of Governor William Bligh; Louisa Alexandrine married Robert Ramsay, son of Sir George Mackenzie, baronet, of Coul, Scotland; Frances Sophia married Rev. Thomas Jones, an Anglican clergyman. Daughter Mary Australia O'Connell (died 1858) and grandchildren Louise Ruth Jones (died 1874) and Alfred Thomas Jones (died 1871) were also reinterred in this grave on 30 April 1913.

Further Reading:
Fisher, R. and B. Shaw (eds)
1994 Brisbane: Cemeteries as Sources. Brisbane: Brisbane History Group.
D. Shineberg, 'Jones, Richard (1786–1852)', Australian Dictionary of Biography, National Centre of Biography, Australian National University

TOOWONG CEMETERY

North Brisbane Burial Ground Memorials (Portion 6)

Eliza Pym 1871 – Episcopalian Burial Ground - Milton

Friends of Toowong Cemetery Association Inc.

Version 1, 1 December 2013

This year (2013) marks the centenary of the redevelopment of the North Brisbane Burial Grounds at Milton and Paddington into recreational space and for other purposes. The denominational leases of the seven detached burial grounds (Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Catholic, Jewish, Wesleyan Methodist, Congregational and Baptist) were surrendered by 1911. The following year the Lands Department advertised that remains and/or headstones would be moved at government expense to cemeteries chosen by the relatives who applied. As it was now 37 years since the official closure of the burial grounds, only 99 sets of remains and 148 headstones were transferred, the bulk of them to Toowong Cemetery. Not all of the remains could be located, neither could some of the relatives remember precisely where the burial had occurred in the case of unmarked graves.

The remains and memorials removed to Portion 6 came from the Episcopalian (Anglican), Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian burial grounds. Unfortunately, a number of headstones which were transferred here in 1913 were subsequently demolished around 1974 when 'unsightly memorials' were removed by the Brisbane City Council in an attempt to convert the older portions of the cemetery into park land.

Arundel Barker (6-26-1/2)
This large family enclosure contained only the burial of one-year-old Arundel Barker whose remains were not located when the memorial was moved here from the Presbyterian burial ground. Arundel died nineteen days after his first birthday on 14 March 1862 at Shafston. He was the youngest son of William Barker and his wife Elizabeth (née Harpur). His parents are buried in Portion 13 Section 42 Grave 12 and Arundel is also memorialized on their headstone.

Sarah Ann Warman (6-26-13)
Sarah Ann Warman (née Weston) was the wife of WH Warman, the proprietor of the Caxton Hotel on Petrie Terrace. She died aged 35 on 31 May 1868 and was interred in the Episcopalian burial ground. Her remains and memorial were transferred here on 29 April 1913.

Susan Elizabeth Warry (6-26-23)
Susan was one of the fourteen children of grocer, later Mayor of Brisbane, Richard Symes Warry and his wife Mary Lydia (née Pratten). She died aged 10 months on 1 November 1864 and was buried in the Baptist burial ground. Her remains and memorial were transferred here on 14 May 1913.

Eliza and Frances Pym (6-26-26)
Eliza Pym was the daughter of Robert Mather and Rebecca (née Harder). She married Royal Navy Commander Richard Elsworthy Pym and had a number of children including their daughter Frances who predeceased her parents on 28 January 1863. Eliza died at Alice Cottage, Alice Street on 15 August 1871 aged 75. Mother and daughter were originally buried in the Episcopalian burial ground. The remains and headstone were moved here on 20 April 1914.

James Swan (6-26-25)
Alice Cottage was also the location of the death of twenty-year-old James Swan on 24 March 1868. James, an employee of the Government Printing Office, was the son of John Swan and his wife Helen. He was interred in the Presbyterian burial ground after a military funeral which departed Alice Cottage two days after he died.

Volunteer Brigade Office, March 26, 1868
MEMBERS of Batteries and Companies of the Queensland Volunteer Brigade who wish to attend the Funeral of the late Mr James Swan, of the Brigade Band, will PARADE at 3.30 pm THIS DAY, at the Drill Room, George street, with side arms only. A firing party of thirteen men will be furnished by Nos 1 and 4 Companies Queensland Rifle Brigade. Seven men will be supplied by No. 1. and six men by No 4. Sergeant Pike, drill instructor, will command the firing party. By order,
R S MACGREGOR, Lieutenant 50th Queen's Own, Adjutant Q V Brigade
Brisbane Courier 26 March 1868:1

Annie and James Hugh Burgess Piddington (6-23-18)
The remains of the mother and son were reburied here on 9 May 1913 after removal from the Wesleyan Methodist burial ground. Annie (née Burgess), the wife of the Reverend WJ Killick Piddington, died at the Wesleyan Parsonage, Wickham Terrace aged 36. James died on 27 September 1865 at Ipswich one month short of his eighth birthday.

Adam Cumming (6-23-20)
Presbyterian Adam Cumming, the son of John Cumming, died aged 31 on 23 May 1861. A native of Renfrew, Scotland, he was the secretary of the Queensland Steam Navigation Company. His remains and finely-lettered headstone were transferred on 17 April 1913.

Eleanor Maude Highfield (6-11-15)
Eleanor was two days short of reaching her first birthday when she died on 27 November 1872 at Parkside, Gregory Terrace. She was the daughter of Charles Highfield and his wife Harriet Eleanor (née Munce). Since this grave was established in August 1914, when Eleanor's remains were transferred here, she has been joined by her brothers Charles Harold and William Jackson Highfield.

Lionel Arthur Halford Burne (6-3-10)
Lionel was the only son of Felix Burne and his wife Laura (née McNaughton). From Mt Athelstane, now a suburb of Rockhampton, Lionel was only five and a half years old when he died in Brisbane on 28 February 1866. His remains and headstone were removed from the Episcopalian burial ground on 30 April 1913.