On 13 April 1898 Premier Sir Hugh Nelson resigned to become President of the Legislative Council. A new ministry, led by T J Byrnes, was gazetted with minor changes in cabinet positions, but heralding the prospect of a fresh start. The Ministry survived until the death in office on 27 September 1898 of Queensland's 12th Premier, after a bout of measles followed by pneumonia. T J Byrnes was the first Queensland-born Premier of Queensland and its shortest-lived.

Robert PHILP	Portion	Section	Grave
	14	23	10

Following the resignation of the Dawson Ministry on 05 December 1899, Robert Philp became Queensland's 15th Premier, forming government on 07 December 1899. The Philp Ministry tendered their resignation during the 2nd Session of the 14th Parliament of Queensland on 09 September 1903 based on Division the previous day for their financial proposals. The first Philp Ministry officially ended after 3 years and 284 days on 17 September 1903. Philp returned as Premier on 19 November 1907, when the Kidston Ministry resigned. Following a vote of no confidence, Philp obtained dissolution of Parliament and Queensland held a general election on 05 February 1908.

Arthur MORGAN	Portion	Section	Grave
	12	15	12

A Morgan-Browne Liberal-Labor coalition was sworn in on 17 September 1903, following the Philp Ministry's resignation and Labor's inability to form government in their own right. Previously the Speaker of the House, Arthur Morgan became Queensland's 16th Premier, Chief Secretary and Secretary for Railways. On 27 August 1904 Queensland's general election returned Morgan's Ministry.

When Sir Hugh Muir Nelson died, Arthur was appointed President of the Legislative Council on 19 January 1906, ending his 2 years and 124 days as Premier of Queensland.

Samuel Walker GRIFFITH	Portion	Section	Grave
	12	11	6/7

After winning the 1883 Queensland general election, Griffith's 1st Ministry officially commenced on 13 November 1883. On the opening of the 10th Parliament's 1st Session's first day, 12 June 1888, the Griffith Ministry resigned following their election defeat. Griffith served as Premier for 4 years and 213 days.

A coalition dubbed "Griffilwraith" was formed on 12 August 1890 after the Morehead Ministry resigned, restoring Queensland's 9th Premier. On 13 March 1893 Griffith resigned all political offices to become Chief Justice, ending his second tenure as Premier after 2 years and 227 days.

Charles LILLEY	Portion	Section	Grave
	12	15	15

Queensland's 6th Ministry led by Queensland's 4th Premier, Charles Lilley, began on 25 November 1868. On 28 January 1869 the Ministry was reconstructed, with Lilley still leader. Lilley spent 1 year and 158 days as Premier until 03 May 1870.

Arthur Hunter PALMER	Portion	Section	Grave
	13	88	7

The 5th Premier of Queensland, Arthur Hunter Palmer, took on the role from 03 May 1870, closing the 4th Parliament's 3rd Session.

Queensland's 7th Parliament's 1st session started on 06 January 1874, but an adverse vote for the election of Speaker prompted Palmer's Ministry to resign, seeing the vote as a lack of confidence. A new Ministry formed on 08 January 1874, consigning Arthur's time as Premier to 3 years and 249 days.

Anderson DAWSON	Portion	Section	Grave
	11	56	1

Premier Dickson resigned after a division for the Railways Standing Committee Bill on 22 November 1899.

Remembered for leading the world's first Labor government, Anderson Dawson became Queensland's 14th Premier when he formed a minority government on 01 December 1899, during the 2nd Session of the 13th Parliament of Queensland. On 05 December, Anderson announced his resignation based on division on the 01 December motion, "That this House do now adjourn." Official recognition of Philp's Ministry starting on 07 December 1899 meant Dawson's administration officially lasted 06 days. This remains as Queensland's shortest term as Premier.

Boyd Dunlop MOREHEAD	Portion	Section	Grave
	12	49	6

From 30 November 1888 when Queensland's 8th Premier, Sir Thomas McIlwraith, resigned due to ill health, Colonial Secretary, Boyd Dunlop Morehead accepted the Premiership and Chief Secretary roles

An Assembly sitting record was created when Parliament sat for 97 continuous hours from 3pm Monday 28 October until 4:15pm Friday 01 November 1889. The Opposition stonewalled to oppose a loan vote of $1 million for unspecified railway lines. The vote was ultimately withdrawn. The ministry resigned when plans for increasing revenue were nearly defeated. Boyd was Queensland's 10th Premier for 1 year and 255 days.

William FORGAN SMITH	Portion	Section	Grave
	8	25	20/21

For 10 years and 91 days from 17 June 1932 until 16 September 1942, William Forgan Smith served as Queensland's 24th Premier. Labor, led by Forgan Smith, won the 11 June 1932 Queensland election, making Smith Premier. Labor subsequently won elections held in 1935, 1938 and 1941. Upon retirement, Forgan Smith was Queensland's longest serving Premier until surpassed by Frank Nicklin and then Joh Bjelke-Petersen.

William Neal GILLIES	Portion	Section	Grave
	18	106	20

Queensland's 21st Premier, Labor's William Gillies, took office on 26 February 1925 after Ted Theodore resigned to contest a federal seat and William won leadership by one vote over William McCormack.

Criticism William received for his handling of a railway strike led to his resignation on 22 October 1925 to take on an appointment with the Board of Trade and Arbitration. William's Ministry lasted 238 days.
