William FRASER	C2 149	Portion	Section	Grave
		8	6	21

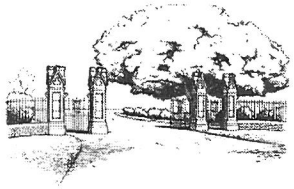

Born on Durundur Station on Tuesday 18 April 1843 to Barbara and Thomas Fraser, William Fraser came to Brisbane about two years later. Mary Hill married William on 08 July 1887.
In interviews about the olden days, William revealed he had previously worked on the Moreton Bay Free Press, in the Courier Jobbing Office (printing) and with Cobb+Co driver "Flash" Harry James on the Brisbane to Maroochy route. William took second place in the Brisbane Centenary oldest resident competition, 81 years in Brisbane. William, of 109 Baines Street, Kangaroo Point died on Monday 17 May 1926.

Emily Elizabeth Dorothea TRUNDLE	I2 981	Portion	Section	Grave
		9	21	16

Amelia Dorothea Elizabeth Rode was born at the Zion Hill Mission on Thursday 19 November 1840, the eldest daughter of Franz Joseph August Rode and Julia (née Peters). John Trundle married Emily at her father's home, Kedron House, German Station on Wednesday 01 May 1861. Emily, of Lamington Avenue, Lutwyche was recognised as the winner of Brisbane's Centenary oldest resident competition, having been in Brisbane for 83 years. Emily died on Wednesday, 5 February 1930.

Select Sources

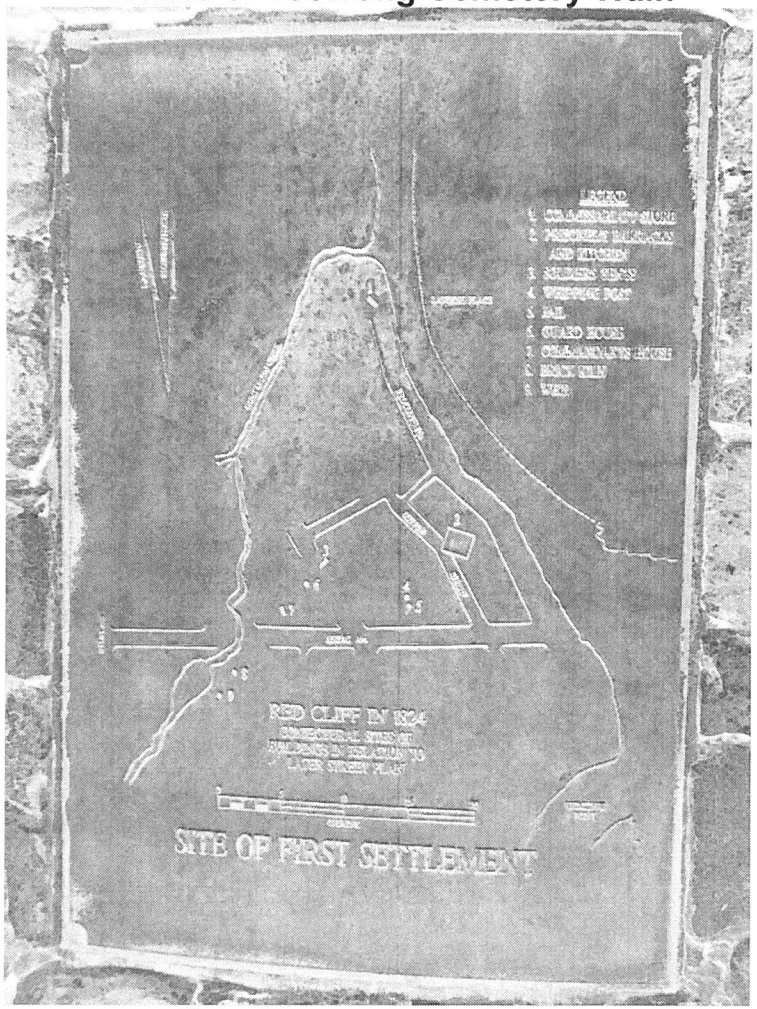

Colonial Secretary's Papers 1788-1825, Museums of History NSW 2023 (https://mhnsw.au/indexes/colonial-secretary/colonial-secretarys-papers-1788-1825/)
Family history research service, The State of Queensland 2021 (https://www.familyhistory.bdm.qld.gov.au/)
Fraser, D. W. (Douglas Were) (1963). Early public service in Queensland. Journal of the Royal Historical Society of Queensland 7 (1) 48-71. (https://espace.library.uq.edu.au/view/UQ:212632)
Letters relating to Moreton Bay & Queensland: A2 series , State Library of Queensland, 2023 (www.slq.qld.gov.au)
Moreton Bay and More: Stories from our Past, Karen B 2023 (https://moretonbayandmore.com/)
Original Convict Settlement Humpybong 1824-25, The Pictorial History of Redcliffe and the Moreton Bay Region, The Pictorial History of the Moreton Bay Region, 2023 (https://www.redcliffebook.com/post/original-convict-settlement-humpybong-1824-25)
Record Search, National Archives of Australia 2023 (https://recordsearch.naa.gov.au/)
Redcliffe Convict Heritage Trail, Moreton Bay Regional Council 2022 (https://storymaps.arcgis.com/stories/a75efdae95974f63b5ac43c53061c6a7)
Search the indexes, The State of Queensland 2023 (https://www.qld.gov.au/recreation/arts/heritage/archives/starting/search-the-records/search-the-records)
Steele, J. G. (John Gladstone), 1935-(1972). Redcliffe in 1824. Queensland Heritage 2 (6) 20-25.
Trove, National Library of Australia, 2023 (https://trove.nla.gov.au/)

Friends of Toowong Cemetery Association Inc.

European Settlement of Moreton Bay Bicentenary

Friends of Toowong Cemetery Walk

First settlement memorial wall plaque
Rotary Park, Redcliffe Parade, Redcliffe

Charles SIMPSON	I 317	Portion	Section	Grave
		4	12	18/19

Hannah and James Simpson's son, Charles, was born on 27 March 1824 in Wakefield, Yorkshire. Charles, his wife Ellen and their children migrated from England to Brisbane aboard the Morialta (late British Consul), arriving on Monday 27 February 1882. Charles, a builder residing on Windsor Road, Red Hill died on Saturday 02 October 1886 and was buried in the Toowong Cemetery the following day. There are three in this grave.

Regiment of Foot

Rather than prison warders, British Army soldiers guarded convicts. During Moreton Bay's penal colony era (1824-1842), detachments of the 40th, 57th, 17th, 4th, 28th and the 80th Regiments of Foot were assigned to oversee convicts at Moreton Bay.

Red Cliff Point (Redcliffe)

Based on a despatch dated 09 September 1822 to locate a suitable site for a new penal settlement at Port Bowen, Port Curtis (Gladstone) or Moreton Bay, The Surveyor General, John Oxley, sailed north on the HM cutter Mermaid on 21 October 1823. Returning to Sydney in December 1823, Oxley gave Moreton Bay a favourable report. The HM brig Amity dropped anchor in Moreton Bay on 12 September 1824. Selecting Red Cliff Point (Redcliffe) the task of pegging out the settlement began on 14 September 1824. By December 1924 word arose that the penal settlement at Redcliffe may move to a spot on the Brisbane River.
In May 1825 the Moreton Bay settlement at Redcliffe was abandoned in favour of the location that eventually developed into Brisbane. The remnants of the settlement became known as Humpybong, derived from the local First Nation dialect, loosely translated as dead shelters.

Convicts

Established as a secondary offenders penal colony, the Moreton Bay penal colony was reported to hold between 29 convicts at establishment and about 950 at its height in 1830. As a place for secondary offenders, no convict ships sailed directly from England to Moreton Bay. After the official end of Moreton Bay as a penal settlement a couple of "exiles" (as convicts were rebranded) ships arrived direct from England.

John & Isabella HURWOOD	Y 840 & Z1 403	Portion	Section	Grave
		13	56	1

John Hurwood was born in Pickhill, Yorkshire on Thursday, 08 July 1824 to Anthony Hurwood and Ann (née Raper). Ann Wright married John in Thirsk, Yorkshire during the April quarter of 1850. John was a farmer, listed as retired in the 1881 United Kingdom census. John and his family migrated to Brisbane aboard the Merkara, arriving on 15 December 1882. John died on Wednesday, 2 September 1903.

Isabella Hurwood was born in the September quarter of 1856 in Thisk, Yorkshire, the fourth daughter born to Ann Wright and John Hurwood.
Isabella, of Baldersby, Mark Street, New Farm, died on Friday, 12 September 1924.

Anna DYNE	A1 205	Portion	Section	Grave
		14	6	19/20/21

Sylvanus William Curd and Mary (née Barham)'s daughter, Anna Curd was born on Thursday, 13 May 1824 in Deptford, Kent. William Henry Dyne married Anna on Monday 24 April 1848 in St Giles's Church, Camberwell, Surrey.
Anna and seven sons migrated to Australia after the death of William. The family arrived in Brisbane on 27 February 1866 aboard the Legion of Honor. Anna purchased land in the Maroochie (Maroochy) area in 1876, then on 15 March 1877 Anna purchased land at Petrie Terrace and had two dual houses built there by 1889. In 1889 two houses owned by Anna in Arthur Terrace, Red Hill were destroyed by fire. Anna was the final owner of the steamer Settler, which sank at its Bulimba moorings, holed by cobras (commonly called marine shipworm, but actually a type of clam). Anna died on Thursday 16 March 1905.

Brisbane

On Tuesday 09 November 1824, HM colonial brig Amity left Sydney, taking 14 days to travel north. Those aboard included His Excellency the Governor in Chief and His Honour the Chief Justice, Francis Forbes, who designated a site about 9 miles from the mouth of the Brisbane River, Edenglassie during the expedition. The Redcliffe settlement moved in May 1825 to the newer site, but it was still referred to as Moreton Bay. Brisbane as a town was mentioned from March 1826. In October 1924 the City of Brisbane Act passed, amalgamating numerous towns into the City of Brisbane.

15330 Alfred Deane FELTON	R3 73	Portion	Section	Grave
		18	54	1A

Born in Walker Street, North Sydney, NSW on Sunday 18 August 1889 to Frederick Felton and Lydia (née Meadway), Alfred Dean Felton, a farrier, joined the AIF in October 1915. In the right place at the right time, Alf became the Sculling Champion of the World after defeating title holder, Ernest Barry on the Thames on Monday, 27 October 1919. Receiving his military discharge in March 1920 after returning to Australia, Alf unsuccessfully defended his title in the return match held on the Parramatta River on Saturday, 28 August 1920. The Centenary celebrations of Brisbane provided an opportunity for another attempt at the sculling world title when Alf challenged title holder Jim Paddon on the Brisbane River on Tuesday, 12 August 1924. Easily defeated, Alf announced his retirement from sculling. Alf died in Brisbane on Saturday, 15 December 1951 and was buried on Tuesday 18 December 1951.